

COVID-19/CORONAVIRUS ANNOUNCEMENT:

Open University is entirely online via Zoom for the fall 2020 session. No in-person activities are scheduled. Offerings are on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

- What is Zoom? It's a cloud platform for video, voice, content sharing, and chat that works on mobile devices, desktops, and telephones.
- How does Zoom work? It's easy! All you need to do is register with The Shepherd's Center and we send you a Zoom class link via email. Open the email, click on the Zoom class link and you are in the virtual classroom. No internet connection? See page 3.
- Free Zoom tutorials are held the week before the fall session begins. See page 7 for info.
- See complete registration information on page 7.

We express our sincerest gratitude to the volunteer teachers and speakers assisting us in transitioning Open University to an online program during this unprecedented and challenging time.

Mondays

Irish Literary Revival

The Irish Literary Revival was a late 19th and early 20th century blossoming of literary talent responsible for reviving ancient Irish folklore, legends, and traditions, which brought forth notable works of Irish fiction, drama, and poetry. In addition to exploring the major literary artists and the modern "classics" they produced, this course will also consider the religious, political, and social forces that inspired the movement. Teacher: John Countryman, professor emeritus, director of theatre, Berry College
